05 – SELF-GUIDED BIKE TOUR

From Lake Garda to Venice

From the city of Love to the city on the Water

Italian inbound tour operator

The route starts off in Verona, from where you'll discover Lake Garda and its nice surroundings. Then you'll head to Montagnana, an authentic medieval village, and then Vicenza, rich of beautiful buildings designed by the famous architect Andrea Palladio. The route goes now North to Bassano del Grappa (yes, grappa!) embraced by mountains; to Treviso and eventually reaches Mestre and the Venetian Lagoon.

The route mainly runs on flat land, with some up and downs close to the Berici Hills and the Prealps.

The destination of the tour is the unique Venice: you'll ride to Mestre, and then reach Venice by train in only 10 minutes.

From Verona you'll head East following the river Adige, cycling on bike paths and small country roads. You can stop in Cologna Veneta, city of the delicious mandorlato (nougat) and then get to Montagnana, a small medieval city surrounded by well-preserved old walls. Overnight in Montagnana.

Day 4 – From Montagnana to Vicenza – 57 km

Today's route runs through the flatlands to the foot of the Berici Hills along little roads in the middle of vineyards and cultivated fields, passing by ancient villages, villas and parks. Before getting to Vicenza, the charming city of Andrea Palladio, you'll pass by his most famous masterpiece: Villa La Rotonda. Overnight in Vicenza.

Day 5 – From Vicenza to Bassano del Grappa – 47 km

The route winds in the countryside of Vicenza and approaches to the foot of the Prealps, an area rich of rural houses and elegant

Venetian Villas. If you like, enjoy a break in the walled city of Marostica, famous for its living chess event and square, and take a picture at Villa Angarano, designed by Andrea Palladio.

You'll reach Bassano del Grappa crossing the well-known wooden bridge, with the mountains in the background.

Overnight in Bassano del Grappa.

Day 6 – From Bassano del Grappa to Treviso – 69 km

The route crosses a green area between Monte Grappa and the hills of Asolo, follows bike paths along streams of spring water, and arrives in Castelfranco Veneto, a walled city famous for being Giorgione's hometown. The road to Treviso runs on a shady bike path built over a old railway.

Overnight in Treviso.

Day 7 – From Treviso to Venice lagoon – 55 km

From Treviso you'll follow the winding Sile river on a beautiful bike path, deep in the green of the countryside, just interrupted by some noble Venetian Villas that reflect on the clear water of the river.
